Making Parenthood Possible

SINCE FOUNDING THE REPRODUCTIVE INSTITUTE OF South Texas in 1992, Dr. Esteban O. Brown has cultivated the skill, patience, expertise and compassion required in working effectively with couples facing fertility issues.

"Infertility is technically, intellectually, financially and emotionally challenging. We work with each couple individually to develop a personalized and affordable treatment plan, then do our best to support them throughout the process. A successful outcome is a healthy baby," he explains. "Parenthood is what everyone deserves, and making it possible is what makes it all worthwhile for me. I love what I do. I believe in families of all kinds."

Educated at Stanford, Baylor, UTMB-Galveston and the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Brown completed a three-year fellowship in reproductive endocrinology and infertility, learning from some of the field's best and most caring experts.

At the Institute, which specializes in female and male infertility, Dr. Brown strives to maintain state-of-the-art technology, from the latest therapy for low sperm count—Intracytoplasmic Sperm Injection (ICSI), where one sperm is injected into the egg—to Pre-implantation Genetic Diagnosis (PGD), where the embryo is genetically tested before implantation.

"I want to make IVF (In-Vitro Fertilization) affordable and the technology accessible to everyone," he says.

For nearly two decades, Dr. Brown and his dedicated staff have helped thousands of Rio Grande Valley couples conceive. Highly skilled fertility experts help determine, on a case-by-case basis, the obstacles to fertility and implement comprehensive treatment options to increase the odds of conception.

Senior scientist-embryologist Dr. Yinzhong Bing provides world-class expertise. He has trained in China, Sweden, Canada, and Japan, where he was the senior embryologist at the world's largest IVF center, the Kato Ladies Clinic in Tokyo.

Embryologist Li Mei Che also provides world-class expertise, with more than 20 years of IVF experience in Canada, Japan and China.

Success rates at the Institute are among the state's best. "We believe in providing compassion and sensitivity along with the best and most affordable IVF available," says Dr. Brown. "We're here to remind all challenged couples that parenthood is possible."
